Announcing our 2009–2010
season: “beautiful music
where you live,” as affordable and accessible as always

We’re pleased to announce that the Danbury Concert Association has once again assembled an outstanding series of four concerts for our forthcoming season, which kicks off in fall of 2009 and concludes in May 2010.

At a time when the economic crisis is causing cutbacks in almost all aspects of our lives, including the arts, we remain committed to bringing top quality live performances to Danbury in the form of affordable, accessible concerts for music lovers of all ages.

If you’re a long-time subscriber, you’ll be delighted to hear that our old friends Chamber Orchestra Kremlin and Quartetto Gelato will be returning to Ives Hall next season. Subscriptions for adults will once again be $40 for all four concerts, and Western Connecticut State University students and others under age 18 will be admitted free of charge through a grant from the Danbury Cultural Commission.

It’s sure to be another wonderful season, so please remember to send your subscription in before June 30 in order to benefit from our new subscriber or renewing subscriber bonus offers!
